

A STRONG IMPRESSION

Made by Defendant Molineux, Even Prosecuting Attorney Being Forced to Praise His Actions on Witness Stand.

New York, Nov. 1.—Molineux went from the toms prison to Judge Lambert's court this morning prepared to again face the ordeal of relentless and persistent cross examination of the prosecution.

Prosecutor Osburn cold and merciless, with a knowledge of the case from four years standing, led the witness through a maze of questions many of which seemed without import trying to lead up to some damaging admission. There was none, for Molineux parried every thrust. Molineux was suave and courteous and never one did he show a trace of anger. The prosecutor scored his best point yesterday when Molineux admitted that he had engaged Weeks as his counsel, although he had not been arrested.

It seemed as if every policeman on reserve in New York had been called to keep the crowd from the court room today. They were all needed. Today's examination of Molineux by Osburn began as follows:

"Did Barnett pay your wife attention such as any gentleman might pay to a woman?" "He did not."

"Did Barnett pay attention to Miss Chesborough, she who is now your wife?" "He did not."

"When did Barnett die?" "Some time in Nov., 1898."

"When did you buy an engagement ring for Miss Chesborough after she had accepted you?"

"On Nov. 18, 1898."

Molineux said that on Christmas 1897 he had given Miss Chesborough a ring which had been given him by his mother.

"When I became engaged to Miss Chesborough in 1898, she suggested she keep the same ring I had given her at Christmas for an engagement ring. I went and bought another ring," continued the defendant. At this time the defendant introduced a letter sent to one "Sadie," announcing that his marriage to Miss Chesborough would take place soon.

The prosecutor then announced that he was through with the witness. Molineux with a bow to the Judge quietly left the stand.

There was much surprise at the apparent abrupt end of the cross-examination.

General Molineux appeared delighted. The spectators soon forgot their surprise when the court officers began to erect the blackboards for more handwriting experts.

Marcellus Gumpel, a former Californian and now of New York, a photographer and engraver, qualified as a handwriting expert.

"Have you compared the admitted handwriting of the defendant and the Cornish and Barnett letters?"

"I have."

"Are they written by the same hand?"

"They are not."

"Have you compared the handwriting of the defendant and the address on the poison package?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are they written by the same hand?"

"No, sir."

Witness was here shown the address on the poison package and declared that the address was written in a natural handwriting.

He said that none of the characteristics of the defendant's handwriting were shown in the address of the poison package.

testimony which was given that day. He told it well and with apparent readiness to answer every question. He told it with great earnestness, even vehemence at times, and at other times he permitted himself to show a degree of mirth. He explained many things alleged to be damning by the prosecution and he fenced like a diplomat when Prosecutor Osburn tried to force him into making damaging admissions.

When Molineux began the day's ordeal he was frightfully nervous, but one could hardly say that he showed fear. He knew, of course, better than anyone else in the crowded courtroom the peril of awaiting death that confronted him from the moment he went upon the witness stand. Yet almost as great a peril was waiting for him if he should fail to testify, for the verdicts of juries in murder cases show that jurors have little faith in a defendant who dares not tell them his own story of innocence.

Molineux did not go on the witness stand at his first trial, and was convicted. This time he boldly faced the issue. There could be no doubt that he enlisted the sympathy of all who heard him, regardless of their opinions of his guilt or innocence. At the end of yesterday's fight even the dogged prosecutor could not withhold a word of praise. Even he, a man of iron strength, was exhausted by the day's battle.

When Assistant District Attorney Osburn left the courtroom leaning on the arm of a friend he was heard to whisper:

"He's a wonder. It was beautiful work."

This was his only comment, but it was evident that he felt he had been trying to handle a most wideawake witness.

Former Governor Black, while he would not give expression to his opinion of the day's work, looked pleased, and it was evident that he thought Molineux had made a good witness for himself.

The handwriting experts will follow Molineux on the stand. That is all I care to say," was his reply to questions. The general opinion among criminal lawyers is that Molineux has strengthened his case.

While on the stand Molineux declared his absolute innocence of any part or knowledge of the murder and denied that he had written the Barnett and Cornish letters; that he had ever made cyanide of mercury or that he had ever seen the silver bottleholder in which the poison was sent until it was exhibited in court.

He admitted having written and signed with his own hands one letter asking for a certain patent remedy on the famous blue interlaced crescent paper, identical with that on which the Cornish letters were written, and said that he procured the paper at the Waldorf-Astoria. His bitter differences with Cornish, which resulted in his leaving the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, were related by Molineux without any apparent reserve.

When called by his counsel Molineux told of his arrest and subsequent imprisonment.

Then he admitted that he had studied chemistry at Cooper Union and later, after being absent from New York for a year because he was co-respondent in a divorce suit, that he secured employment as superintendent of the paint factory of Morris, Hermann & Co. at Newark.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Massillon, O., Nov. 1.—Ex-Congressman K. R. Editor W. S. Capeller and City Editor Carter were arrested today and reprimanded by Mayor Robinson for contempt of court. It was in the case of publisher Webster on trial for assaulting Carter. K. R. Capeller and Carter took offense at the remarks made by Webster's attorney and left the court without permission of the Mayor.

NEWARK, O., Nov. 1.—Molineux made a strong impression as a witness in his own behalf and even the prosecuting attorney was forced to praise the action of the defendant. He told for the first time since he was arrested nearly four years ago on the charge of poisoning Mrs. Katharine J. Adams, the story from his standpoint. Yesterday's dispatches to the Advocate gave two columns of his

RIVAL CLAIMS

Columbus, Nov. 1.—Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee says the Republican plurality in this state will be not less than 50,000, and that the Republicans will have 17 of 21 congressional districts.

Chairman Garber of the Democratic committee, says he does not expect the Democrats to carry the state but looks for largely reduced Republican majorities, and claims that the Democrats will win back the Third and Twelfth districts (Dayton and Columbus).

MEN QUIT

Declining to Work Because They Think Friday Is Unlucky.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—All the employees of the Bigelow boiler works in this city, left the factory yesterday morning, declining to work any longer on Friday, because they think it is unlucky. Three weeks ago a workman had his eye put out; last Friday another employee had his hand smashed, and lost a finger; yesterday Frederick House was riveting a beer tank that weighed half a ton. The tank rolled on him, crushing in his skull. He died an hour later.

COLER

Will Carry New York Says Chairman Griggs—Democrats to Control The House.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The President's Secretary, Mr. Cortelyou, has sent a word of encouragement to the party workers and voters and incidentally said that the President is watching with keen interest and earnest desire for Republican success.

Fresh from New York, Chairman Griggs, of the Democratic Congressional committee, has made the following prediction:

"I am satisfied Mr. Coler will be elected Governor of New York by not less than 25,000 majority. His majority south of the Harlem River will be, at the very lowest calculation, 95,000. We will elect 17 out of 37 Congressmen from New York, and probably 19."

As to the general result of Tuesday's election Judge Griggs says: "We will control the House of Representatives by not less than 16 sure."

GAS WELL

ON THE JAS. TEWELL FARM IN BURLINGTON TOWNSHIP.

Edward H. Everett is Now Laying Ten Inch Pipe Line From Dry Creek.

Another gas well in the Licking county field came in Friday night on the J. W. Tewell place in Burlington township. The well which was drilled by Mr. Kinsey for Edward H. Everett is 2312 feet deep. While the flow of gas has not been stated it is announced that it is an average well—and that means a good one. The Tewell well is about half of a mile from the wells on the Griffith and A. J. Wilson farms.

Mr. Everett, who has extensive interests in the Licking county gas field and who some months ago piped gas to Newark with which he is now running the Everett glass factory, is now having a ten-inch pipe line laid from dry creek to Samuel Patton's place in Burlington township.

COMES TO NEWARK.

It was authoritatively announced Saturday afternoon that the ten inch pipe line which Mr. E. H. Everett is now laying from Dry Creek to the Licking county gas field will be extended to Newark and that the gas produced through this line will be turned into the Natural Gas pipes of the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel Co., which is now furnishing the people of the city with natural gas.

QUESADA

TALKS ABOUT THE TREATY WITH CUBA.

CUBAN MINISTER DENIES THE STORIES OF FRICTION.

Reciprocity Apart from Other Questions—The Minister Tells of a Promise of McKinley.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Senor Quesada, Cuban minister to the United States, in commenting on the negotiations now being conducted for a commercial treaty between Cuba and this country, said:

"The reciprocity treaty is purely commercial convention and has nothing to do with any other political questions which may arise between the two governments, and has absolutely nothing to do with the Platt amendment. The Cuban government has been studying the draft of the treaty submitted by Secretary Hay, and he is consulting the different interests in the island and the customs and receipts, and in due time will return it with observations and modifications deemed for the interest of Cuba, and which at the same time will not hurt the interests of the United States."

"It has shown by past experience, during the reciprocity arrangement under Mr. Blaine, that the commerce between both countries materially increased, and it is expected that under any reciprocal arrangement between the two countries that the figures will be still higher than they were 10 years ago, when they reached upward of $100,000,000."

Mr. Quesada said that the best of feeling existed between the Cubans and Americans, proof of it being that every steamer arriving at Havana and other Cuban ports brought a great many American investors who not only were putting money in the island, but were establishing themselves there.

He spoke of the popularity of Minister Squiers and the gratitude of the Cubans for the United States for services which were rendered.

When asked regarding the proposed coaling stations in Cuba, Mr. Quesada said that four days before President McKinley was shot he had at the instance of Estrada Palma gone to Canton and secured from the president a solemn promise that while he was chief executive he would not give his consent to the establishment of a naval station at Havana, and that President Roosevelt knew of the promise.

Continuing Mr. Quesada said that President Palma never would have gone to Havana, the Cuban capital, where a diplomatic corps was established, while a foreign flag was flying over the city.

The minister also said he could see the necessity for a coaling station at Cienfuegos, which had been recommended by Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, in view of its proximity to Guantanamo, which also was recommended as a coaling station.

"YES"

Miss Van Wyck Said This Time But 'Twas With Another Man.

New York, Nov. 1.—Miss Happy Thodora Van Wyck, daughter of former U. S. Senator Van Wyck of Nebraska, and Fernando Wall Benner, a wealthy real estate dealer of 419 Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, were secretly wed in the rectory of the Little church at and the corner, Thursday. The news did not become public until today. Miss Van Wyck came in public notice last July when she was led to the altar in Washington, D. C., by Frank Mitchell, a clerk in the Southern railway office, but she refused to say "yes" at the proper time. She said the matter was "too serious," and a few days later left Washington to come to New York.

IN THE COAL MINES

Commissioners Get Down Four Thousand Feet—They are in the Vicinity of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Today.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 1.—The strike arbitration commission left here at 8 o'clock this morning for Plymouth, where they will visit Prospect colliery of the Lehigh Valley company. The party, which comprised all the members of the commission, several coal operators and newspaper men, went to Plymouth on a special train over the Delaware and Hudson railroad. They will spend Sunday in Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 1.—The strike commissioners spent all day Friday inspecting the mines and mining region about Scranton. The afternoon was spent in riding through the region on a trolley car. Today the commissioners are in the vicinity of Wilkes-Barre.

It is possible the commission may make a preliminary report on three of the principal strike questions, the increase in wages, a shorter working day and the weighing of coal.

The commissioners were underground two hours and a half. The arbitrators asked many questions.

The Manville is said to be one of the worst mines in this region for the miners to work. The veins of coal are not more than three feet thick and the miner has a more difficult time in getting the coal out than where the seam is thicker. The commissioners walked several miles through the gangways, and owing to the exceedingly low roof had to do their tramping almost continually in a stooping position. After the arbitrators had been in the workings an hour Judge Gray decided that his back ached enough and he came to the surface, accompanied by Bishop Spalding.

The first breast visited was 2,000 feet from the foot of the shaft. There the investigators found a miner and his helper at work. General Wilson and Messrs. Clark and Parker crawled into the three foot horizontal opening between the rock out of which the coal was being taken. The commissioners sat around with flaming lamps in their hands listening to the grimy digger giving his testimony. The miner was asked how much he made a day, how many cars of coal he was able to get out, how many hours he worked, what he paid his helper, how much he made per month before the strike and many other questions. General Wilson was the chief inquisitor.

The visitors were then taken 4,000 feet in another direction to where a miner was working in an accumulation of water. The miner was questioned principally regarding the water. He told how he takes it out every morning before doing any mining, and also told the commissioners what compensation he received for doing it. He called attention to the loose rock overhead, which made bad roofing, it often falling and compelling him to spend considerable time in improving conditions about the breast. In reply to a question as to how much he got for removing the rock he said:

"We take it out for the good of your souls."

After the commissioners, superintendents and the miners' representatives had asked him innumerable questions the party journeyed up a plane or tunnel to the second vein, which measures from two feet four inches to two feet ten inches in thickness. At the end of one of the chambers of this seam of coal the arbitrators were shown how the miners drill a hole in the narrow spaces. The visitors then returned to the surface.

On the way to the first breast, immediately after being lowered to the bottom of the shaft, which is about 315 feet from the surface, Superintendent Rose called the commissioners' attention to a train of mine cars filled with coal. The rules of the company require that there must be six inches of topping on each car. The cars exhibited were filled only to the top edge of the sides. In commenting on this to the commissioners Mr. Rose said it was a "sample of how the company is imposed upon by some of the men."

Later the commissioners visited Taylor, Dunmore and Throop, small mining towns outside of Scranton, to view the homes and surroundings of the mine workers.

THE RICH ATTACKED

Marie Corelli Attacks American Millionaires Like Ouida Did a Year Ago—"Vulgarity in Wealth" is Her Topic.

London, Nov. 1.—Marie Corelli has an article entitled "Vulgarity in Wealth" in a new magazine, in which she bitterly attacks American millionaires just as her dearest enemy, Ouida, did a year ago.

"As a nation of bombast and swagger the United States is a kind of rarey show in the world's progress, but her strength is chiefly centered in dollars, and her influence in the social world teaches that dollars are the only ware. English society has been sadly vulgarized by the American tint."

Miss Corelli does not approve of either Morgan or Carnegie. "We see J. Pierpont Morgan" she writes, "a money octopus, stretching out his greedy tentacles in every direction and striving to grasp the British shipping industries and interests. Everywhere it is devouring everything in its deadly grip, which, if it is permitted to hold, would mean mischievous and loss of prestige to our country, though no doubt it might create blooming in America."

Mr. Carnegie is freely abused for his generosity in donating libraries. He is called "a poor human biped," is accused of patronage, ostentation and swagger. "The masses" under Miss Corelli hear of Carnegie strewing free libraries all over the surface of the country as if they were so many lollypops thrown out of a schoolboy's satchel; they follow the accounts of his doings with mingled wonder and derision.

With many of the more independent thinking classes the millionaire Carnegie's money pitched at the public savor of a patronage which they resent and of an ostentation which they curiously call swagger. Once wealth could not purchase an entrance into society; now it is the only passport.

"Men and women who have the privilege of personally knowing and frequently associating with the royal family are known to accept payment for bringing otherwise obscure persons under the immediate notice of the king, and it is a most unfortunate and regrettable fact that throughout the realm persons ever dine with their sovereign without having paid a middleman for the privilege."

"Wealth in excess," Miss Corelli says, "wealth in chunks, wealth in great, awkward, unbecoming dabs, is plastered as it were by the merest haphazard toes of fortune's dice on the backs of uncultured and illiterate Americans, who, bowed down like asses beneath their golden burden, are asinine ignorant. In very few cases does immense wealth go hand in hand with refinement, reserve or dignity. Millionaires are for the most part ill-mannered, illiterate and singularly uninteresting in conversation."

Fellow Democrats, do Your Whole Duty.

Fellow Democrats of Licking county, this is probably the last time we will have the opportunity, before the election, of urging upon you the necessity of doing your whole duty, at the election, next Tuesday. Your whole duty on that day, can mean nothing more nor less than to vote for the ticket that represents your political views and principles—and that is the Democratic ticket. We have no more personal interest in the election of the Democratic ticket than you have and your duty in the matter is just the same as ours. In other words, it is to the highest interest of every Democrat and of every true lover of his country, to do all in his power to make Democratic principles prevail, next Tuesday; and, the only way to do that, is to vote for the Democratic candidates, who now represent the principles that are for the salvation of the country. This being so, it becomes the duty of every Democrat and every patriot to vote the Democratic ticket next Tuesday.

It is no longer a personal matter—a choice between men and candidates. That day has come by. Every Democrat in Licking county had the opportunity to vote his own personal choice, as between men and candidates, in an open, free and fair election by the people; and it is only now, right and Democratic, to acknowledge the result, as the honest and unbiassed expression of the majority's opinion. Show that you are a patriot.

Not so was the Republican ticket made. It was not made by a vote of the people, but is merely a fixed-up "plate" prepared by a few Republican bosses in advance, and crowded through an alleged convention, composed of a small number of Republican politicians. The people had nothing to do with making the Licking County Republican ticket and they are not bound by it.

So, fellow Democrats, our duty next Tuesday is very plain. We have had our day of choice, as between men, at our primary election. Next Tuesday is the day of duty—a day of obligation and loyalty to the life-long political principles we have professed and still profess. Of course, if we have abandoned those principles—if we have become Republicans instead of Democrats—then we must vote for the candidates that represent our political principles. But, if we are still Democrats—as the large majority of the voters of old Licking are—then we should vote for the only ticket that represents Democratic principles, and that is, the Democratic ticket.

If we believe in the Democracy of Jefferson and Jackson and want to see it carried out in local and national government—if we believe in the "greatest good to the greatest number" and justice and equality for all—if we believe in home rule and local self-government—if we are opposed to extravagance and dishonesty in the administration of public affairs—if we are opposed to imperialism, that is tampering under foot the Constitution and the Declaration and destroying the liberties of the people—if we are opposed to trusts that are robbing the many for the benefit of the few and crushing the life out of the people—then, vote the Democratic ticket next Tuesday!

Every vote for a Republican candidate next Tuesday is a vote against the Democratic principles you have cherished and labored for all your life! It is a vote in favor of imperialism; monopoly; trusts and everything that you detest. It is political suicide of the worst kind!

Fellow Democrats, the political skies are bright for a glorious Democratic victory next Tuesday, if every Democrat does his whole duty. Not only in Ohio, but in New York, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, the people are rising in their might against the party of imperialism, trusts and oppression. Let every Democrat in old Licking go to the polls, next Tuesday, without fail, and vote the straight Democratic ticket. Let him see to it that his friend and neighbor votes also. Let us not only elect our whole ticket—as we shall—but let us elect it by a good, old-fashioned, old time Democratic majority.

NEXT TUESDAY.

Next Tuesday will be election day. Democrats, vote early, and see that your Democratic neighbors all go to the polls.

"ECONOMY."

That Means Increased Taxes to Pay for Salaries and Less Money for City Improvements.

The new code saddles an expensive outfit upon all cities like Newark. The people of our city will hereafter be taxed to pay the salaries of FIFTEEN newly created offices, amounting to nearly that many thousands of dollars.

As the American-Tribune champions the new code, this shows that the kind of economy that paper favors is INCREASED EXPENDITURE FOR OFFICIAL SALARIES, and less money for city improvements.

One of the Republican boasts is that they can hire Democrats to stay at home and never to vote. They could rightly seek to deprive Democrats of the right to vote at all if they had the power. Democrats, turn out and show these Republican claqueurs the result, as the honest and unbiassed expression of the majority's opinion. Show that you are a patriot.

WHY?

In all the American-Tribune's desperate efforts to charge Democratic extravagance, it has not attempted to show by comparison Republican economy in any locality. If there is such a thing as Republican economy anywhere, why doesn't the A-T. tell us the county, city, township, or village where it exists?

Are Republican counties anywhere more economical than Democratic counties? If so, why has not the A-T. named them?

Are taxes lower in Republican cities than Democratic cities of the same size? If so, where are such cities and what are their names?

Are taxes lower in the Republican townships of Licking county than in the Democratic townships? Or is there any evidence whatever of greater economy in the Republican townships of the county than in the Democratic townships? If so, why does not the A-T. name them out?

Why has not the A-T. attempted to make an honest showing by a fair comparison like any of the above and give the people some facts instead of confining itself wholly to tricks of deception?

Why has not the A-T. shown how much Republican officials in Licking county reduced taxation when they got into office?

Why has not the A-T. shown the kind of "economy" the Republicans furnished when they got control of the city of Newark?

These would make local object lessons. Why does not the A-T. make a showing of Republican "economy" where our own people can see it and know what the character of the article is like?

The way for every Democrat to vote next Tuesday is to put the X mark in the circle under the rooster and no where else.

Mr. Fitzgibbon Answers a Lying Circular.

Editor Advocate—It has come to my knowledge within the past few days, that a circular has been sent out to voters throughout the city and county, to the effect that if elected, I will not enforce the law. In view of the fact that some of these circulars, might reach persons who do not know me, I wish to make this statement to the people of Licking county.

"If elected, I will enforce the law and will do my duty fully and fearlessly, without regard to persons, politics or business. In my official capacity I will wear no man's collar, and will be under obligation to no party or clique. The people can rest assured that I will do my whole duty."

Very truly
J. R. FITZGIBBON.

"We want the best men in office," says the American-Tribune, and then it asks the voters to support a man for Prosecuting Attorney who has never tried a criminal lawsuit, and never, unaided, tried a civil suit in the common pleas court.

Democrats who voted at the primaries pledged their honor to stand by the nominees. They should keep their pledge and honor. This they can only do by putting their X-mark in the circle under the rooster when they cast their ballots.

A SPECTACLE OF SELF CONVICTION.

The American-Tribune actually confesses that it has been doing some awful lying throughout this campaign. It finally acknowledges the truth of the Advocate's statement that Mr. Brownfield, the Democratic candidate for Commissioner, did not owe his nomination to Commissioners Pigg and Holton, because he was not their choice at the Democratic primaries. And yet the A-T. began its campaign of abuse and falsehood against Brownfield by claiming that he was their candidate, and that his election meant the "CONTINUATION" of Pigg and Holton in office. In every issue of that paper since the campaign began it has made the claim and reiterated it that Pigg and Holton would be "CONTINUED IN OFFICE" by the election of Brownfield. This statement was the A-T's first campaign text, and it has been that paper's principal stock in trade in every issue of the paper since.

How could the election of Brownfield be the continuation of Pigg and

Compare the Candidates for Prosecuting Attorney.

A good test of the merits of a candidate is the way he runs in his own locality. In the spring of 1901 E. S. Randolph was a candidate for City Solicitor on the Republican ticket against Phil D. Smythe, the Democratic nominee. In that campaign the relative number of cases in which each candidate was employed as attorney as shown by the court records, was made an issue. It was shown that Smythe was an attorney in a large number of cases, but only 3 or 4 cases could be shown to the credit of Randolph. The people were quick to see which of the candidates were best qualified for the office by the relative amount of business that each of them transacted as lawyers in the courts. The result was that Smythe was elected over Randolph by 525 majority in the city.

Now Randolph is a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of the county and he can make no better showing in the courts as a lawyer now than he could then. The court records show that he is not an attorney in over 4 cases and they are not important ones.

Is such a man entitled to confidence and support as against a lawyer of the reputation, ability, experience and practice of James R. Fitzgibbon? He certainly is not. Then vote for Fitzgibbon, the qualified lawyer for Prosecutor.

No Home Rule About This.

The new code forces a form of government on our citizens against their will and against their consent. Newark voters would not deprive themselves of the right to regulate expenditures for city improvements, if they had a chance to decide the matter at the ballot box. But the code does rob them of this very right. And yet the Republican champions of the code profess to call it "Home Rule."

Voters should show what they think of that kind of Home Rule when they cast their ballots next Tuesday.

Charles S. Howard, who is the Democratic nominee for Infirmary Director, having served one term faithfully and well, is a candidate for his second term and deserves re-election. The manner in which he has discharged his duties on his first term is a guarantee that he will do so efficiently during his second term.

The way for every Democrat to vote next Tuesday is to put the X mark in the circle under the rooster and no where else.

Holton in office, either directly or indirectly, if he was not their choice for nomination for the office?

Hence, when the A-T. admits the truth of the statement that Brownfield was not Pigg and Holton's candidate, it also admits that his election does NOT continue them in office.

In fact, by this admission the A-T. actually convicts itself of downright falsehood in every issue of the paper since the campaign began.

It is an admission on the part of the A-T. that it has been wholly dishonest in all the attacks it has made on Mr. Brownfield. It is an actual confession that it has been trying to defeat him by falsehood and deceit.

We are quite satisfied to see the A-T. convict itself of all this sort of trickery, and disreputable methods and place itself before the public in such an unenviable light. The paper not only shows that it has no regard for the truth, but it shows that it does not care who knows it.

Do the tax payers of Licking county want a man for Prosecuting Attorney who has never tried a criminal case? Do the tax payers want to elect a man to this responsible office who has never, unaided, tried any case in the courts? If he does not, then the only thing for the tax payer to do is to vote for James R. Fitzgibbon.

The way for every Democrat to vote next Tuesday is to put the X mark in the circle under the rooster and no where else.

Republicans are boasting how cheap they can buy Democratic votes for their state ticket in whom the people had no voice in choosing. Democrats should resent this slur—this insult to their manhood and patriotism.

NEXT TUESDAY.

Next Tuesday will be election day. Democrats, vote early and see that your Democratic neighbors all go to the polls.

Judge Waldo Taylor, a man who is known to as many people in Licking county, as any man living, is the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge. He is entitled to your support and deserves re-election.

Judge Taylor has made an ideal Probate Judge, having administered the business of that office with a fairness, an impartiality and honesty that appeals to all who have come in contact with the affairs of the office.

Mr. C. P. Kniseley, the Democratic candidate for County Surveyor, needs no word of praise. He has the qualification to perform the duties of the office, and his thorough integrity amply justifies the people in electing him by a top-notch majority.

Don't believe any wild campaign stories that may be started on the eve of election. Look over the record of the Democratic candidates and vote for them because they merit your support.

The court proceedings tell the story as to which of the candidates for Prosecuting Attorney is the qualified, experienced lawyer. His name is James R. Fitzgibbon.

What one of the Republican candidates ever voted for a Democrat? Why, then, should a Democrat support any of the Republican candidates?

Scott Evans, who is running for his second term as Coroner, has been a pains-taking and faithful officer. He merits his second term, not only on account of party custom, but because he has made an efficient, accommodating official.

Physicians of all schools use and recommend Walther's Peptonized Port; take their advice. See ads.

Commissioners Pigg and Holton Are Not Campaign Issues.

Chagrin and disappointment are pictured all over the countenance of the American-Tribune because the Advocate does not defend Commissioners Pigg and Holton against the "charges" that paper has made against them. The poor thing has been trying all these weeks to draw the Advocate into a discussion defending them, and it has failed. Consequently its sad disappointment. But Pigg and Holton are not candidates for election, and hence are not campaign issues. Neither do they need any defense. The A-T. has made no direct charges against them whatever supported by facts. And everybody knows that the A-T.'s twaddle about the Gutridge lawsuit has not worried either Pigg or Holton in the least.

When that case comes to trial in the court it will be shown whether Gutridge can produce any facts or not. If he can produce no evidence to sustain the "allegations" he makes then Messrs. Pigg and Holton will be quite sufficiently vindicated. But if Gutridge does produce facts and evidence to prove that Pigg and Holton have been guilty of the extravagance he claims, the Advocate will PROMPTLY CONDEMN them instead of defending them.

All the facts will come out when the case comes to trial, if there are any. It will be quite sufficiently shown then whether the case has any merit, or whether Gutridge has been actuated by personal spite and has been made a tool to bring the suit for political effect.

The Advocate will accept the court's decision. But will the A-T. accept it?

The A-T.'s campaign text that the election of Brownfield would "continue" Pigg and Holton in office has been regarded by everybody as a very transparent campaign lie.

NEXT TUESDAY.

Next Tuesday will be election day. Democrats, vote early, and see that your Democratic neighbors all go to the polls.

FULL TEXT

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and amply represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopoly and as opposed to all other legalized monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles. To the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRAIGNED.
Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owners have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaries and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandals and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unjust discrimination at the hands of unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public question we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.
1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of (those) properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

CLASSIFICATION.
3. That to prevent evasion of state taxes by discriminating valuations, a separation of the sources of state and local revenues should be made. And to that end, we heartily endorse the constitutional amendment now pending before the people and to be voted on next year, which will permit classifications of taxable property.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

FREE PASSES.
5. That the acceptance of free passes or other favors from railroads by public officers or employees should be adequate ground for their removal from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech, and that government by injunction if persisted in, will wreck the liberties of the people.

MUNICIPAL CODE.
7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and be extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.
8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain between the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of its boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators represent.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.
10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby direct that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination at that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the co-operation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.
Made from an active principle obtained from Black Root. They act on the liver equal to salom and leave no bad after effects. No griping, no sick stomach. Will cure chronic constipation. Price 25 cents.

Mr. Asbaugh the furrier, will be at the Griggs store, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 4th and 5th.

The Breath of the Vineyard

Every one knows that Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. Hence the housewife uses it with implicit confidence and without question, and she is justified in so doing.

But how few realize that Royal Baking Powder is in its chief ingredient a direct product of the healthful and delicious grape! It is the mild acid of grapes, which crystallized and ground to an impalpable powder is called cream of tartar, that forms the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Fruit acid is indispensable to the healthfulness of the body, and the acid of the grape is the most valuable and healthful of all.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder produces food remarkable both in flavor and wholesomeness.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

Water in which mignonette has been placed should be changed often, since it quickly becomes foul.

The best use to make of old bones is to break them up and bury them near the roots of fruit trees and grapevines.

By sowing nitrate of soda in small quantities in showery weather under trees a most beautiful verdure will be obtained.

It is not a good plan to fill an old orchard with young trees. The soil is too much exhausted by the growth of the former occupants.

Geraniums bloom most satisfactorily when grown in comparatively small pots and soil which is termed rich, but not rank with excessive manure.

Stir, spade, rake and pulverize soil thoroughly before planting or sowing. The importance of this work cannot be overestimated if you desire fine blossoms.

Geraniums that have been used for summer bloomers will not flower again until the late spring months. Plants for winter blooming should be grown especially for this purpose.

"Yes, Henry," replied the new grandmother, "one of them is."—Chicago Tribune.

IT IS DOUBTFUL

If Local Application Alone Ever Cured a Case of Catarrh.

Most remedies for the treatment of catarrh are in the form of sprays, inhalers, powders, washes or salves, all purely local applications and many of them often give temporary relief, but the reason none of them ever really cure chronic catarrh is because catarrh is not a local disease and it cannot be cured simply by treating the local symptoms.

Moreover the more serious forms of catarrh, like catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bronchial tubes, cannot be reached at all by local applications and the fact that neglected catarrh of the head very soon involves the bronchial tubes, stomach and liver, demonstrates that the disease is a blood disorder, a constitutional malady and not at all a local disease.

To really cure catarrh the system must be cleansed from catarrhal poison by an internal remedy which acts effectively upon the blood and liver.

The success of a new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is because it drives out of the system, through natural channels, the catarrhal poison and the mucous lining of the nose, throat and trachea are freed from the excessive mucus which collects and causes the hacking, spitting and gagging, because the excessive secretion is not furnished from healthy blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain many of the same valuable antiseptics used in sprays and inhalers, but instead of being applied to the inflamed membranes of the nose and throat, they are taken into the stomach and thus reach the blood, the real seat and cause of the disease.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, composed of Red Gum Hydrastis, Bloodroot, and similar catarrh specifics, and so safe to use that little children suffering from cold, take them with same beneficial results as adult persons.

No trace of cocaine or opiates, so common in catarrh medicines, can be found in Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

After all had arrived, the hostess attired in black, peaked hat, black cloak and domino, and carrying a broom passed slips of paper to the guests. Written on the slips were fragments of Mother Goose rhymes, the matching fragments being partners for supper. THIS LIFE IN PERIL. "I just seemed to have gone all to pieces," writes Alfred Bee, of Welfare, Tex., "billionsness and a lame back had made life a burden. I couldn't eat or sleep and felt almost too worn out to work when I began to use Electric Bitters, but they worked wonders. Now I sleep like a top, can eat anything, have gained in strength and enjoy hard work." They give vigorous health and new life to weak, sickly, run down people. Try them. Only 50c at Hall's drug store.

Her Housework Easily Performed After Taking Blood Wine

Women who find it difficult to do their housework, who drag about their home with hardly energy enough to lift a broom, who are all tired out; who ache, are lame, languid and distressed, will find in "Blood Wine" a medicine whose peculiar strength-giving properties make it impossible for these all too common ills to exist. A great many women neglect themselves, and disease follows. "Blood Wine" should be in the kitchen shelf of every home. If taken when one enjoys good health it will keep one from getting out of order. If taken after disease has fastened itself upon the system it will quickly throw it off. Mrs. Elizabeth Marsh of 22 Isabella St., Boston, Mass., owes her present good health to "Blood Wine," though she almost died before she got hold of the medicine. She says:

"I suffered for years with a general run-down condition, due to a bad condition of the blood, which produced a type of dyspepsia. I had at times pains that almost drove me wild, and that left me with scarcely enough strength to get around. A friend, one day, told me of a medicine called 'Blood Wine'. I began with small doses and the result was improved. I soon got so I could eat bread and milk. I continued with the medicine until I had taken several bottles and was entirely cured. Now I eat anything, am strong, healthy and happy, and attribute it all to 'Blood Wine'."

Womb affections, periodical sufferings, and the general lassitude resulting will quickly disappear when the blood is properly treated. It provides nourishment and strength and brings about a natural condition in all the organs. Mrs. Bertha Sanderson of 50 Germaine St., Boston, will testify to that. Her experiences are as follows:

"Your 'Blood Wine' has done more for me than I could expect in a letter. I have been subject to womb trouble all my life, and have

TIM HEALY'S SPEECH.

Shafts of Wit Fired at England's Prime Minister.

THE ROLE OF A UGANDAN ASSUMED

Irish Member's Speech in the British House of Commons Was Considered One of the Most Effective Pieces of Political Irony Ever Uttered.

Mr. Tim Healy's speech in the house of commons on the reassembling of parliament a few days ago won general praise as one of the most effective pieces of political irony ever uttered within the walls of St. Stephen's. As reported in the London Daily Telegraph the speech ran as follows:

Mr. Healy said he rose for the purpose of saying a few words on the subject of the Uganda railway. Speaking as a matter of Uganda, he wished to thank the government for the great measure of advancement, which he was sure would bring calm to Kerry and balm to Balladehob—namely, the proposed expenditure upon that country of a large amount of public money and the taking up of the time of the house with regard to a project of that description. He could not help felicitating the government on the proposal to spend time and money upon the inhabitants of that distant and neglected land, Uganda was a place which had always been foremost in his thoughts.

They had been brought up to love and reverence it, and it was at least a consolation that that long neglected country should at length have won the favor and approbation of the prime minister of England to such an extent that he was prepared in a time of great stringency and when the education bill was exciting so much passion to give the people of that country the hope of having a large portion of the time of the house of commons devoted to it. There must be some reason for this flattering attention to Uganda. He believed it was a crimeless country and that its administration was in the hands of the most pure souled removable which the British empire could afford.

Law and order there proceeded with a regularity of which they had no example in this country (England), and hence it was that the British parliament turned aside from more paltry topics, such as the affairs of Ireland, of England, Scotland and Wales, and devoted itself with one voice to the interests of the people of that afflicted area. New as the right honorable gentleman was to the office of prime minister, he had given a pledge to the empire at large which would redound through Australia, Canada and every land and kingdom and republic, too, absorbed by England that, however much this parliament might have its hands full, if you were a nigger, a painted savage or a heathen roaming the woods the prime minister of England still had a tear at his disposal and that in his generosity he would be prepared to appeal to the chancellor of the exchequer to pour out the gold of England for the benefit of this benighted and dejected savage.

Irish members had long gloried in the destruction of their own parliament, because when in Ireland, within the narrow walls of an Irish parliament, could they imagine such disaster? Where could they imagine such disaster, when their own country was palpitating, thrilling and throbbing with passionate emotion, as to turn aside to contemplate the position of the niggers of Uganda? Hence it was that in future the admiration which he had always felt would now be something ethical and ennobling, and they would go back to their own country with the glorious and glowing principle that Kerry might be neglected, Connaught might be starving, but at least the house had an eye and a faithful care for the people of Uganda.

The Big Chrysanthemum.
All vanished are the flowers
That long their fragrance shed;
They withered with the summer,
And all their beauty fled.
But now in its glory
We see another come,
And gladly we are hailing
The big chrysanthemum.

It isn't much on fragrance,
For it's not built that way;
It doesn't sweeten breezes,
That oft around it play.
But gorgeous are the colors
And beautiful the hues
That nature on it lavished
To make its charms profuse.

In modesty 'tis lacking—
That virtue often praised—
For it is forward pressing,
And high its head is raised.
But there's sufficient reason
For playing "rubberneck."
Because it takes that method
To show us it's on deck.

In foliage, too, 'tis lacking,
For there's but a little green
That from it is projecting
Where its long stem is seen.
But leaves 'tis coldly spurning,
Preferring that they drop,
Directing all attention
To beauty that's on top.

In great conservatories
It reigns as queen of all.
The beauty it embodies
At festival and ball.
'Tis waved as floral trophy
Where rules the football game,
And at all social functions
It gets there just the same.

'Tis glorious in color,
Majestic in its mien,
And everywhere in autumn
It reigns as floral queen.
When the flowers come,
We see this beauty come,
And joyously we're greeting
The big chrysanthemum.

BLAST FROM MARIE CORELLI

She Calls American Millionaires Il-literate Dabbed With Wealth.

Marie Corelli has an article entitled "Vulgarity in Wealth" in the new English magazine King and Country. In bitterly attacking millionaires she writes:

"As a nation of bombast and swag-gers the United States is a kind of rare show in the world's progress, but her strength is chiefly centered in dollars, and her influence in the social world teaches that dollars are the only ware. English society has been sadly vulgarized by the American taint."

Miss Corelli does not approve of either Morgan or Carnegie, says a London cable dispatch to the New York American. "We see J. Pierpont Morgan," she writes, "a moneyed octopus stretching out his greedy tentacles in every direction and striving to grasp the British shipping industries and interests. Everywhere it is devouring everything in its deadly grip, which, if it is permitted to hold, would mean mischief, though no doubt it might create rejoicing in America."

Mr. Carnegie is freely abused for his generosity in donating libraries. He is called a "poor human biped." He is accused of patronage, ostentation and swag-gers. "The masses" under Miss Corelli hear of Carnegie strewing free libraries all over the surface of the country as if they were so many lollipops thrown out of a schoolboy's satchel. They follow the accounts of his doings with mingled wonder and derision. With many of the more independently thinking classes the millionaire Carnegie's money pitched at the public saviors of a patronage which they resent and of an ostentation which they curiously call swag-gers. Once wealth could not purchase an entrance into society; now it is the only pass key.

"Men and women who have the privilege of personally knowing and frequently associating with the royal family are known to accept payment for bringing otherwise obscure persons under the immediate notice of the king, and it is a most unfortunate and regrettable fact that throughout the realm the word goes that no such obscure persons ever dine with their sovereign without having paid a middle-man for the privilege."

"Wealth in excess," Miss Corelli says, "wealth in chunks, wealth in great, awkward, unbecoming dabs, is plastered; as it were, by the merest haphazard toss of fortune's dice on the backs of uncultured and illiterate Americans who, bowed down like asses beneath their golden burden, are asinine ignorant. In very few cases does immense wealth go hand in hand with refinement, reserve or dignity. Millionaires are for the most part ill-mannered, illiterate and singularly uninteresting in conversation."

NOTES FROM MANILA.

Philippine Capital to Have the Largest Theater in the Orient.

The difficulties with which the health officers have to battle in Manila are shown by the following incident reported in the Manila American:

The court of customs appeals recently handed down the sentence in the case of Alfred S. Wilson. Wilson is the ex-customs officer who was instructed to place certain condemned articles of food on the garbage scow and who instead sold them to a Chinaman for 300 pesos. The evidence showed that he did place the articles on the scow, but rescued them and sold them. The check which the Chinaman gave was seized, and the goods were eventually recovered. The defense urged that the man was not acting as a customs official when he sold the goods, but as a private person, and was not therefore responsible to the customs act. The decision, which is by Judge Arellano, holds that he was in a position to know better than any private person that the goods were unfit for use and that the customs house had not for that reason collected the duty upon them. The sentence is that Wilson be confined for six months and that the check for 300 pesos be confiscated.

According to reports recently received from Manila, that city will soon have the largest theater in the orient, says the New York Tribune. It is being erected on the old circus grounds, north of Calzada de Bilbao, near the center of the city. The architect's description of the new National theater states that the seating capacity will be about 2,000. There will be 500 orchestra seats, 100 persons may be accommodated in the boxes, 200 in the orchestra circle, 300 in the family circle and 1,000 in the gallery. A stock company has been organized, and $25,000 will be spent in decorating and furnishing the new place of amusement.

A New Appendicitis Theory.

Dr. H. C. Howard of Champaign, Ill., ascribes the increase in the number of cases of appendicitis to the changes in the methods of milling flour, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. Up to 1875 cases of this trouble were exceedingly rare, and he asserts that the modern process of milling very white flour, which takes from the grain nearly all the phosphates and leaves only starch and gluten, is chiefly responsible for the disease. He asserts that wherever a community has abandoned the old fashioned coarse flour appendicitis has very soon made its appearance. The latest illustration being among the negroes of the south, who, while their bread diet was solely corn flour, did not know what the disease was. As the use of fine white flour has increased appendicitis has made its appearance among them with most disastrous results.

SAD PLIGHT OF THE DOUKHOBORS

Pilgrimage of Religious Fanatics "Looking For Jesus."

INFANTS PERISH ON THE MARCH

Their Bodies Thrown Into Bushes by the Roadside—Strange Belief of Russian Sect in Canada, Two Thousand of Whom Descended on a Town in a Piteous Condition.

Two thousand Doukhobors have marched on Yorktown, N. W. T., and the town has capitulated without firing a shot, says a dispatch from Winnipeg, Manitoba, to the New York Tribune. The spectacle presented was a lamentable one. The Doukhobors had camped out a few nights ago without shelter, and the thermometer stood at 14 degrees below the freezing point. The mob consisted of men, women and children, including infants in arms, one being born the other night, the mother marching in the procession. Some of the sick were borne on litters, some few were barefoot, many wore rubber boots and others coarse sandals made of binding twine.

Simeon Tchernomirsky, who talks a little English and whose bare feet bore witness to his insane zeal, explained that they were "looking for Jesus." When asked where were his boots, he held up his naked foot and cried, "Jesus boots!"

Immigration Agent Speers succeeded in getting the sick, the women and children housed in the immigration sheds and other buildings, much against their wills. Mothers deserted their babes and allowed them to be taken into the shelter, refusing to follow them until forced along. They say that if God tells them to go back to their farms they will do so, but if not then they will continue as they are. Infants that died on the march were thrown into bushes by the roadside.

The first contingent to descend on the town consisted of about 1,000 persons. After they had been taken care of a detachment of 400 arrived. Corporal J. Nugent and a detachment of mounted police stopped them on the street until arrangements for shelter could be found. The smiles of bystanders were answered by the recitation in Russian of a verse of the Twenty-second Psalm, "All they that see me laugh me to scorn," etc. A long, lean ascetic, with unkempt beard, disheveled hair and bloodshot eyes, stood at the head of the halted procession and prayed. He was protected from the cold by a long cape reaching from his shoulders to his feet, while many of his followers had not sufficient clothing to prevent their perishing in the snow.

A sympathetic citizen offered a glass of milk to a pallid baby, whose mother spilled the milk to prevent the baby drinking it. Biscuits were offered to the children, but they were forbidden to eat them.

The Doukhobors' camping ground was about three miles from town, where there was no shelter except the bush. Parties strayed through the scrub, picking the "God given and greaseless fruit" of the rosebush to satisfy their hunger. No labor of animals had helped to produce this fruit, and they could eat it without sin. Their prophet had prophesied that on their arrival at Yorktown their babies would be taken from them, and they gave them up willingly, for they take the voice of their prophet as the voice of God.

Hitherto the Doukhobors have been propagandists, and they have not sought to extend their faith among their Canadian neighbors. Now they are missionaries and have invited outsiders to join them, thus offering a chance to homestead the fertile lands reserved for exclusive settlement by Doukhobors in all the years they have been in Manitoba.

The Doukhobors, who emigrated to Canada from the Caucasus in 1899, left Russia because of the persecution to which they were subjected. Their name signifies "spirit wrestler" and was used as long ago as 1780. At that time certain members of the Greek church who objected to the use of icons were called "ikonobors" or "image wrestlers." Then the term "Doukhor" or "spirit wrestler," was used to designate those whom the orthodox Russians regarded as wrestling against the Holy Spirit. Like the terms Quaker and Methodist in England, the nickname adhered to the sect and came into general use.

The persecution to which the Doukhobors were subjected aroused an intense religious feeling among them. One of their tenets was vegetarianism, but after they settled in Canada many of them returned to the use of fish and meat. Some of them, however, repudiated not only the use of meat, but went so far as to say it was wrong to enslave domestic animals and turned them free.

A recent English writer said of the sect:

"The present circumstances of the Doukhobors are such as to suggest the possibility of the sect disintegrating or at least dividing into two or more separate bodies. Such splits have occurred in the past and may occur again. At the present time, besides the question of vegetarianism and the use of domestic animals, there is great divergence of practice in the matter of communism. Some villages are more or less strictly communistic, other villages are on an individualistic basis, while some Doukhobor families have settled on their own separate 'homesteads,' and a considerable number have established themselves in the towns, where they get a living as carpenters and blacksmiths. Every Douk-bor knows some handicraft, and one possible solution of the cattle question is that those who believe it to be wrong to use domestic animals will move into the towns and remain there.

"It is such an unusual thing nowadays to come across any considerable body of men who are willing to risk their material prosperity for the sake of their principles that the interest aroused by the 'mad colony' is natural enough. The Doukhobors have undoubtedly given some trouble to the Canadian government, and they have at times shown a cantankerous spirit which has disappointed some of those who took part in arranging their migration from Russia; but, looked at all around and fairly judged, they are a very worthy folk. Industrious, sober, honest and taking their religion seriously as a thing that should guide their practical life."

DEVERY STRONG AND AGILE

How the Big Police Chief Averted Disaster at a Political Meeting.

William S. Devery, the ex-chief of police of New York city, prevented what might have been a terrible accident at the Democratic rally in Madison Square Garden the other night, says the New York World. David B. Hill was speaking. The crowd had pressed close upon the speaker's stand. Thousands of upturned faces showed that the multitude was bent upon hearing every word Mr. Hill was saying.

The throng did not notice that the platform was breaking down at one end. The railing was tottering under the weight of a dozen boys who were leaning upon it. A police sergeant saw the danger and quickly ordered several bluecoats to clear the boys away. When the boys started to move, wedged in as they were against the crowd on the stand, the pressure caused the railing to break with a crash.

Devery was sitting near, and with the agility of a squirrel he sprang forward and grabbed the railing with one strong arm and a boy with the other. The lad was falling with the railing. A moment more and the entire mass of plank and scantlings would have been upon the heads of the crowd below.

"I've got it, but come quick!" shouted the doughty Devery.

A platoon of policemen rushed to his assistance from above and below and managed to relieve the "Big Chief" before his strength gave out. Immediately under the railing were three women and three men in a box. The platform would have fallen upon them with fearful force if Devery had not held it.

The thousands farther away saw Devery's struggles. Tugging at the platform with one arm and with the falling boy with the other, the "Big Chief" was a policeman again, doing duty as he used to do when he wore the blue blouse.

"Hooryay for Devery!" and "You're all right, chief!" cried thousands.

Devery was red in the face from the terrific strain, but his flushed face turned all the redder with blushes as he bowed his acknowledgment to the roaring crowd.

Mr. Hill's speech was interrupted by the demonstration for Devery. He turned and bowed to the hero of the moment and winked approvingly. The policemen patched up the broken platform, and Mr. Hill went on with his speech.

RICHES OF INDIANS.

Financial Resources of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Tribes.

Lo, the poor Indian, is soon to be a poor Indian no longer. According to Mr. W. A. Durant, a lawyer with Choctaw blood in his veins, the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of Indians, numbering all told about 25,000 souls, should be at no distant day about the richest people in the world, says the New York Evening Post. "In the first place," says Mr. Durant, who is fully informed as to the peculiar condition of the Five Civilized Tribes, "our nation and the Chickasaws are partners in the country we jointly occupy, the Choctaws owning three-fourths and the Chickasaws the remainder. We will share in the proceeds of the sale of all the surplus lands that will be sold after the lands have been allotted in severalty. Each man, woman and child is to have 220 acres of average lands. Then the surplus will be sold, and the money goes to swell the fund we already have at Washington. Then from the sale of town lots we will get I don't know how many thousands. One town brought not long ago the sum of $300,000."

"The biggest thing of all, however, is our ownership of valuable coal lands, 500,000 acres of which are to be sold in the next two years. These lands are now being extensively mined, and our tribe gets enough royalty from them to maintain our schools. Good judges say they ought to bring from $500,000,000 to $600,000,000. They produce as good bituminous coal as can be found in the United States, and there appears to be no limit to the supply." Thus it appears that the Five Civilized Tribes have been maintaining a sort of trust with a corner on town lots. The next important question is, What will they do with the money?

Novel Anti Stay Out Late Society.

Any young man who is enrolled on the book of the Anti Stay Out Late society, a new organization among the machinists of Bridgeport, N. J., must complete his foremaking before 11 o'clock each evening or be dragged from the home of his sweetheart by the vigilance committee of the sect, says the New York World. He will then have to pay a fine. Paul McWilliams, while making a call upon his sweetheart the other night, became so interested that 11 o'clock slipped by before he knew it. Then came the vigilance committee and summarily hauled him off to his home.

TALES OF MRS. STANTON

Early Experiences of the Famous Woman Suffragist.

A WINTER SLEIGH RIDE IN IOWA

How She Met a Lecture Engagement While the Roads Were Almost Impassable—A Pathetic Anecdote of Her Early Ambitions—Amusing Incident of First Woman's Rights Convention.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the noted advocate of woman's suffrage, who recently died at her home in New York, some time ago recounted to a party of friends some of the stirring experiences of her earlier years, and they listened with absorbing interest to the stories of heroic efforts made by this pioneer woman, says a Chicago paper.

"It was in 1871, or thereabout," said Mrs. Stanton, "that I found myself in Lyons, Ill., in the worst storm of the winter season. All the railroads were blocked with snow. I was to lecture in a town forty miles distant on that night, but how was I to get there? The landlady of the hotel said it would be presumption to try. I would founder in the snowdrifts. I asked him if he was willing to let me have a good team, sleigh and driver to try the way."

"But, madam, the snow is too deep."

"Will you let me have the team?" "He yielded at last and even saw me out to the sleigh and gave me a hot plank for my feet. Then he tied me up in a buffalo robe, fastening the two corners around my neck. I wore a woolen hood over my bonnet and must have cut a remarkable figure. When about half way to the town I was trying to reach, we met a party in sleighs."

"What are the roads like?" called my driver.

"Impassable" came back the answer.

"Not impassable, since you have passed?" I shouted from my hood.

"We kept on and drove up to the hall where I was to deliver my lecture at exactly 8 o'clock. All the bells were ringing merrily, that being the signal that I had come and that the townspeople were to rendezvous at the hall. I had a crowded house and felt inspired by forty miles of sleigh riding to do justice to my subject. A few weeks later I met General Kilpatrick, whose lecture, 'Sherman's March to the Sea,' was to follow mine. He was in Chicago then and said the reason he called to fill his engagement in Iowa was that travel in that state during the rigors of such a winter was impossible. I then told him of my trip and asked him how he expected to give 'Sherman's March to the Sea' if he could not even take a march across Iowa."

Mrs. Stanton attended the first woman's rights convention ever held in America, and from that time she became thoroughly identified with the movement, says Jeannette L. Gilder in the New York Journal. She tells an amusing anecdote of her first year in swinging round the circle:

"One night in the Quaker meeting house at Farmington I invited as usual discussion and questions when I had finished. We all waited in silence for a long time; at length a middle aged man with a broad brimmed hat arose and responded in a singsong tone: 'All I have to say is if a hen can crow let her crow,' emphasizing crow with an upward inflection on several notes of the gamut. The meeting adjourned with mingled feelings of surprise and incrimination. I confess that I felt somewhat chagrined in having what I considered my unanswerable arguments so summarily disposed of and the serious impression I had made on the audience so speedily dissipated. The good man intended no disrespect, as he told me afterward. He simply put the whole argument in a nutshell, 'Let a woman do whatever she can.'"

Elizabeth Cady began to work for the securing of larger rights to women when she was only a child. She was the daughter of Judge Cady of Johnstown, N. Y., and when she was ten years old her brother died. Apropos of this event comes a pathetic little story from the "Recollections" of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. She says that when her brother died she climbed upon her father's knee, wondering what could be said or done to fill the empty place in his heart.

"Oh, my daughter," he sighed, "I wish you were a boy."

I threw my arms about his neck and said: "I will try to be all my brother was."

All that day and far into the night I pondered the problem of boyhood. I thought the chief thing to be done to equal boys was to be learned and rouraceous, so I decided to study Greek and learn to manage a horse. As soon as I was dressed I hurried to our good pastor, Rev. Simon Hosack, who was always early at work in his garden.

"Doctor," said I, "which do you like best, boys or girls?"

"Why, girls, to be sure! I wouldn't give you for all the boys in Christendom."

"My father," said I, "prefers boys. He wishes I were one, and I intend to be as like one as possible. I am going to ride on horseback and study Greek. Will you give me a Greek lesson now, doctor? I want to learn at once."

"Yes, child," he said, then he laid down his book. "Come into my library and we will begin without delay."

I kept up my lessons at the paragon and made rapid progress. I surprised even my teacher, who thought me incapable of doing anything. I learned to drive and to lead a fence and ditch on horseback. I did every power, hoping some day to hear my father say:

"Well, a girl is as good as a boy after all."

But he never said it.

I began to study Latin, Greek and mathematics with a class of boys in the academy, many of whom were much older than I. Two prizes were offered in Greek. I strove for one and took the second.

"Now," said I, "my father will be satisfied with me."

I rushed breathlessly into his office, laid my prize, a new Greek testament, on the table and exclaimed:

"There! I got it!"

He took up the book and asked me some questions. Then he kissed me on the forehead and exclaimed with a sigh, "Ah, you should have been a boy!"

AMERICAN IDEAS IN CUBA.

Planters Beginning to Raise Tent Grown Tobacco.

The use of cheesecloth in the culture of tobacco is an innovation in Cuba, but has been used in the states of Connecticut and Florida for some time, says the Cuban Investor and Guide. Its use is intended to protect the plants from the nightly visits of the moth, which, alighting on a plant, lays its eggs, and in a few days these give life to myriads of the havoc producing cut-worms.

The secret of obtaining a good return for your crop is to keep the tobacco free of worms, and in the tobacco growing districts it is a nightly sight to see torches all over the fields where the workmen are engaged in gathering the pests. We use the word gathering because many Cuban growers gather the worms in large mouthed bottles and afterward burn them. In this way they are totally destroyed, while they claim if the worms are killed in the fields some of their eggs may be left to give life to another generation.

The filler tobacco brings a very much inferior price to the wrapper, and no grower can expect to have the latter unless he pays close attention to his field and curtails as much as possible the ravages of this pest. The use of the cheesecloth, together with the necessary posts and slats, makes the original cost considerable, but the labor it saves and the increased returns which it assures make it the most profitable investment a grower can make.

In the tobacco growing sections of the United States it is not uncommon to see many lights in the tobacco fields. These are stationary and are so constructed that when the moth, which surely flies directly at it, strikes the light it falls into a pan of poisonous liquid which immediately kills it. The cheesecloth is the simpler and surer method.

The Cuban congress has passed a bill permitting the growers to import free of duty cheesecloth for the above mentioned purposes.

A GORGEOUS GOWN.

Lady Curzon's Coronation Durbar Dress to Be of Indian Make.

Lady Curzon has a deep interest in and admiration for the higher kinds of Indian art work and has succeeded in communicating some of her enthusiasm on the subject to various influential friends at home and in America by means of handsome presents. It is probably not generally known that her excellency's sympathetic imagination had something to do with the original happy conception of the great Indian art exhibition in connection with the Delhi coronation durbar and that her excellency is now watching with close interest the detailed development of the scheme.

Further, we have heard, says the Bombay (India) Gazette of a recent date, that at the durbar on the 1st of January Lady Curzon will wear a dress of exclusively Indian manufacture. A fortunate Delhi craftsman whose unique skillfulness was one of Dr. Watt's many discoveries during his tour has secured the order for this dress piece, which will be in the main idea of its design a gorgeous piece of silk embroidery work in imitation of peacock feathers.

Another Substitute For Coal.

A Chicago man has patented a device which is to do away with coal, at least as long as the oil deposits hold out, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. It is a brick made of solidified crude petroleum. The oil is treated in such a way that it assumes a pasty consistency and may be molded into any shape and hardened. A small block representing a half pint of oil is said to burn fiercely for twenty minutes, emitting no smoke or smell and giving a hotter fire than coal. It is said that these bricks cannot explode and can be made to sell at $3 or $6 a ton, each ton containing the calorific energy of two or three tons of coal.

Beware of the Mad Mollah.

Oh, Tommy-Tommy Atkins—take our quiet little tip:
Don't monkey with the mollah when he's pitched.

He's a tough old proposition and a nasty man to whup.
And he'll put you, Tommy Atkins, to the bad.

He has his head moments when you may catch him, and
There are moments when he'd rather be alone—
When he gets the crazy notion that his state, Somaland,
Is a mockery secured to the British throne.

Oh, Tommy-Tommy Atkins—of your prowess we're aware,
And we know you're always Tommy on the spot.

But, Atkins, of this mollah you are charged to have a care,
He's the maddest, maddest mollah of the lot.

When he gets the crazy notion of his country's ownership,
His country is very, very bad.

Oh, Tommy-Tommy Atkins—take our quiet little tip:
Don't monkey with the mollah when he's pitched.

THE PRESIDENT

Of the City Council, Wilkesbarre, Pa., Cured of Rheumatism.

Col. Wm. J. Harvey, a president of Wilkesbarre's city council, who will long be remembered for his great work for the city, was once a mere physical wreck, torn in every muscle and nerve from the frightful pains caused by rheumatism. He consulted the best physicians, went abroad, took mud baths, and almost every known treatment for the disease. A friend had had a very similar experience and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had cured him, so he recommended this great kidney medicine to Col. Harvey and he is to-day a well man, hale and hearty. He writes straight to the point: DR. DAVID KENNEDY, Dear Sir:—This is to certify that I was permanently cured of rheumatism by the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Wm. J. HARVEY. Rheumatism is but another name for uric acid poisoning which is caused primarily by diseased kidneys. Cure your kidneys and the rheumatism disappears. For all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation, as well as sicknesses peculiar to women, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is unquestionably the greatest medicine known to the medical profession.

It is for sale by all druggists in the NEW 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

Trinity Episcopal Church.

All Saints Day is one of the glorious festivals of the Episcopal church, and during the week succeeding the dominant thought is of the blessed dead. Instead of the horrible macabres that desecrate All-Hallows-tide with pranks and tricks, obliterating the sweet and solemn motive of the anniversary, the Episcopal Church presents its reverential offering of prayer and praise, as is the custom of all the other ancient churches also, in commemoration of those faithful ones, who having fought their good fight, do now rest from their labors, awaiting resurrection. All in this community who have suffered the loss of their "dearest and their best," and who have no other opportunity at this time to join in common remembrance of them, are invited to attend the services at Trinity Church tomorrow. The music will be stately, solemn and inspiring, as befits the time. The morning sermon will take the thought of the occasion as its theme, and will be followed by the offering of the Holy Eucharist as an impressive realization of the communion of saints. All in attendance are requested to remain till the close of the service, whether communicants or not, that there may be no interruption in the dominant thought of the hour. Indeed, the most affecting part of the liturgy is the latter half, following the sermon.

In the evening the sermon will deal with what is really "high church" and what is not, being the third in the series treating of the Episcopal Church. Many people have misconceptions of the meaning of the term, due to lack of true information, which the rector will endeavor to explain. The choral even-song at Trinity, rendered in accordance with the best Anglican traditions, is to be a permanent institution for Sunday evenings, and appears to be rousing much popular interest, expressed by a large attendance. Copies of the evening service, printed in such a way as to be followed easily, are furnished to all.

For the first time, at both services, the feminine members of the choir will wear their new uniform, of a pattern very different from that hitherto used, being such as has the approval of all the bishops of the church.

The music for both services will be as follows:

UNCONSCIOUS

For Over 36 Hours—"Billy" Davis Case Puzzles the Doctors—Condition Critical.

"Billy" Davis, the colored man, who conducts a restaurant on South Fourth street, near West Main street, who was taken sick on Thursday night, has been lying in a comatose condition ever since, and all the efforts of the attending physician, Dr. J. N. Stone, to thoroughly arouse him, have proved futile.

Dr. Stone is of the opinion that he has sustained a slight stroke of paralysis. Davis is still in very precarious condition, although he showed some slight improvement Saturday morning. He formerly resided in Granville, and it is said that he has had several similar attacks before. Electricity was applied to him Saturday without any perceptible effect.

The Sunday Meeting.

The addresses at the Men's Meeting in Taylor Hall tomorrow afternoon will be given by Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the First M. E. church. This will be the first time Mr. Sparks has been heard in Newark except from his own pulpit. The personality of the man as well as his suggestive subject "The Young Man's Toboggan Slide" gives assurance of an exceedingly interesting address. The meeting begins at 3:30 with a song service led by the cornetist, Mr. Daly. There will also be a solo by Mr. J. E. Shephardson of Granville. All men are invited.

The two Bible classes will meet as usual immediately after the big meeting. Mr. Boyce's class will study "Paul in the Lord's school." Mr. Ebersole's class, "How the Bible has come down to us."

Boys' Bible Class.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, a Bible class will be organized for boys. Miss Lumley who conducted the class so successfully last year will again have charge. An interesting course of lessons will be given. The series on "A Bird's Eye View of the Life of Christ" proved so popular last year that Miss Lumley has been asked to repeat the course again. Boys are requested to bring Bibles with them. And it is to be distinctly understood that all boys, whether members of the association or not are invited and will be welcomed to the class.

GOES LIKE HOT CAKES.

"The fastest selling article I have in my store," writes druggist C. T. Smith, of Davis, Ky., "is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, because it always cures. In my six years of sales it has never failed. I have known it to save sufferers from Throat and Lung diseases, who could get no help from doctors or any other remedy." Mothers rely on it, best physicians prescribe it, and Hall's drug store guarantees satisfaction or refunds price. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes, 50c and $1.00.
